

Entscheidungen treffen

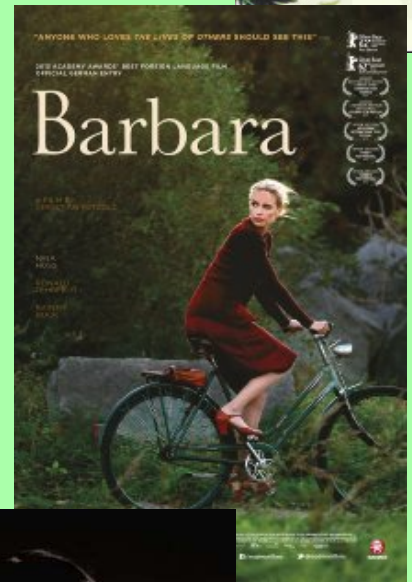

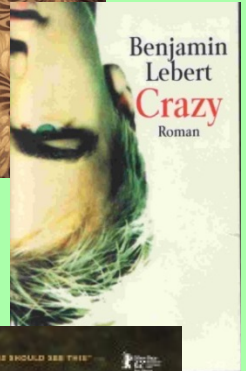

German 301: Conversation and Composition

German 301 is an advanced language and literature course in which you will discuss a variety of contemporary texts and films. Throughout the course, we will discuss what decisions different people make and how those decisions influence their lives for better or worse. This course also provides advanced language learners with opportunities to strengthen their writing and speaking skills.

Over the course of the semester, you will

- work toward improving your discussion skills in German;
- broaden your vocabulary;
- review your command of German grammar
- learn to read and interpret a wide array of fictional and non-fictional texts.

Genres slated for discussion include: a novel, short stories, fairy tales, song lyrics, and films.

Fall 2017

GERM 301.001 and 301.002

with Dr. Pollmann or Dr. Trop

Prerequisite: GERM 204 or permission of instructor

Connections: Communication Intensive, North Atlantic World

Germanic and Slavic
Languages and Literatures