

Study Abroad Scholarship Application: German

Thanks to a generous private donation, the Department of Germanic and Slavic Languages and Literatures can offer undergraduates majoring or minoring in German merit-based scholarships for studying abroad in a German-speaking country. This support is intended to assist students with offsetting the additional costs (e.g., travel) incurred with studying in Europe. It is not for subventing tuition.

Instructions

For your application to be considered, include 1) this completed form along with 2) your most recent transcript and 3) written proof (e.g., an email from a study abroad advisor) that you have recently applied to a study abroad program currently authorized by UNC-Chapel Hill's Study Abroad office. Submit your documents as PDF attachments to gslscholarship@unc.edu no later than October 15 in order to be considered for spring semester funding and March 1 for summer and annual programs.

Study Abroad Plans

Which study abroad program in German-speaking Europe are you applying to and how long do you plan to study there (year, spring semester, summer)?

Narrative Statement

In the space below please provide the selection committee an explanation of 1) what expenses you wish to support with a GSSL scholarship; 2) why you believe you qualify for a merit-based scholarship to support your study of the German language and culture in Europe; and 3) how your intended plans to study in Europe will contribute to your academic and professional aspirations. Your statement should be no more than 500 words.

Honor Code

By submitting the required application materials and signing below, you certify that the information you provide is both accurate and complete. You acknowledge that successful awards can only apply to expenses incurred in conjunction with studying in German-speaking Europe and that your award may be disbursed directly by the Department of Germanic and Slavic Languages and Literatures for the purchase of a flight.
