

Introduction to German Literature

GERM 303

Dr. Jonathan Hess

All texts and class discussions in German.

Approach: Literary Arts

Connections: Communication Intensive / North Atlantic World

Prerequisites or concurrent courses: GERM 301 or GERM 302

This course will offer you an overview of the rich history of German Literature and how different literary texts intersected with the politics and cultural currents of their times. We will begin in the Middle Ages and read in an exemplary approach through five centuries to conclude with contemporary texts. In this course, you will have the opportunity to think and re-think the significance of literary production from a diverse group of authors. Und jetzt lesen wir los!

Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:30-10:45 AM
