

MAKE A GIFT

Dear Friend,

The Department of Germanic and Slavic Languages & Literature (GSLL) has admittedly been quiet in recent semesters, but we've been incredibly busy making tremendous progress in our department.

Just last week, 31 students graduated with majors and minors in German, Central European and Slavic Studies; 24 of these students graduated with distinction. This year, seven students received a Chappel Merit Fellowship to study in Germany, and another two will intern with German companies this summer. By mid-summer, our Carolina-Duke Graduate Program in German Studies will have minted four new PhD candidates and nine master's students; five of which received awards for their teaching.

Carolina's Russian Flagship Program is still thriving, and the department continues to receive extraordinary support for our Polish and Dutch programs from the Polish National Agency for Academic Exchange, and the Nederlandse Taalunie and Queen Wilhelmina Fund respectively. Our business German courses are as popular as ever, and our faculty have been busy publishing books, conducting research, and planning and hosting workshops, like the 21st Annual Czech and Slovak Workshop.

As a small department with big ambitions, GSLL has always been profoundly grateful for your continued support. Your contributions are invaluable in allowing us to continue providing transformative experiences for Tar Heels that call our department home. If you haven't had the opportunity to give this academic year, please consider making a donation today!

Secure donations can be made online, or you can visit the department's website for details on making a gift by mail.

MAKE A GIFT

With sincere gratitude,

Richard Langston
Professor of German and Incoming Chair
Committee Chair for Alumni Development
relangst@unc.edu

Eric Downing
Professor of German and Chair
edowning@email.unc.edu

P.S. If you're interested in creating scholarships, fellowships, and professorships in the department through a gift, pledge, or planned gift, please contact Josh Thornton, Associate Director of Development at the Arts and Sciences Foundation, at Joshua.Thornton@unc.edu or (919) 843-7821.

CONTACT US

Josh Thornton, CFRE
Associate Director of Development
College of Arts & Sciences
523 East Franklin Street
Chapel Hill, NC, 27514, USA
919.843.7821
joshua.thornton@unc.edu